

The dichotomy of music and politics has been a challenge in Primus' life. Many people have told him that he should focus on one or the other, but he resolves that he doesn't see any reason why he should have to choose. He feels he can make people feel good and help them in both regards.

"I think his music is great, unique, and has an original sound. He attacks everything [music and politics] with the same amount of passion," says friend and stylist, Darryl Simon.

Primus describes his music as "soul music that connects to people's spirits," and says that "There's no one like me. I don't compare myself to other artists. I just want to get with them to make good music."

He is, however, inspired by many musicians but mainly the late, great Miles Davis. He says, "Miles is not solely jazz, he's innovative." Primus is also influenced by "just being present in every situation, being completely engaged. When you're present, the world inspires you."

His main goal in life is to live life to the fullest and enjoy the now, but he's also setting out to go on a mini-tour of the southwest this summer. Check his website www.brandonprimusmusic.com for future tour dates.

Primus has just released his first project entitled "Introduction of B. Primus" which is also available for purchase on his website. Playing true to his musical background and talents, he plays all the instruments on the album. He also did all the vocal arrangements and production. His artistic brilliance shines through on each track.

In the end, Primus tells readers to "Live, love, learn, and be present."

NEW MUSIC: "The Good The Bad and The Lovely EP" by Miki Vale

San Diego's very own, and my personal favorite, femcee Miki Vale just released her new EP today...The Good The Bad and The Lovely, and believe me when I said, it's quite lovely!

Miki Vale's lyricism is beyond measure, too dope to even put into proper words. This EP is unfortunately short, having only 5 tracks, but every single track is worthy of being on repeat, while your vibe out on the beats and let the words take you away. One particular song, "Special Way" features one of SD's R&B singers, Ms. Rachel Evans, bringing a soft voice reminiscent of Jill Scott's "He Loves Me" on the hook. And let me not forget to mention that SD's own super-producer/engineer/vocal arranger/everything under the sun Jaz Williams had a hand in making this EP possible as well. Gotta love keeping things right here in the city!

This EP is definitely worth having in your collect if you're a true lover of REAL hip-hop. Ms. Vale does not disappoint...check her out ASAP!
