How was 2013 for you? An amazing year, possibly one of the best yet! So many great gigs and I met awesome people along the way. My residency for Giant/Avalon Hollywood is going on eight years now, the longest and most exciting residency in my career so far. Overall, I'm very grateful.

Highlights? Playing two sold-out shows with my number one inspiration in starting to DJ — Paul van Dyk — at Avalon Hollywood. Those are nights I'll never forget! Other big highlights are being brought on to Solarstone's Pure Trance Tour, with amazing shows in L.A. at Exchange for Insomniac Events and Miami during WMC, (Rich (SS) is one of trance music's most beloved producers, so it was an absolute honor to be a part of), an incredible show in Honolulu HI at Vice Nightclub, oh and being voted number 39 in DJ Times' America's Best DJ Poll was pretty damn cool too.

Song of the year: Really tough question as 2013 was an incredible year for dance music! For trance I'd have to say, Danny Stubbs' "They Walk Among Us" (Thomas Datt Remix), and for the more progressive/housey side of things, definitely Calvin Harris feat. Ayah Marar's "Thinking About You." Both tunes were huge staples in my sets.

What's your New Year's resolution? Just to keep doing what I've been doing, but ramp it up a couple notches. More production, launch my official podcast and hopefully more great gigs playing for awesome fans!
